

AdC Competition Policy Award

Rules of Procedure

1. OBJECTIVES

Within the scope of its mission to promote a competition culture, the Autoridade da Concorrência (AdC) - Portuguese Competition Authority established an award to encourage research in competition economics and law.

The prize is awarded annually. In odd years, such as 2023, it will distinguish a paper on competition law, and, in even years, a paper on competition economics.

2. ADMISSIBILITY

Submissions must relate to the award's theme and be written in Portuguese or English.

Papers must not have been previously published nor accepted for publication, except as working paper or similar, prior to the selection committee's final decision, and joint authorship will be accepted.

Natural persons exercising their activity in Portugal or abroad may apply for the award.

AdC staff, members of the selection committee, and those responsible for the assessment and classification of the papers, may not apply for the award.

3. AWARD

The amount of the prize is €5,000.

The selection committee may exceptionally distinguish more than one paper, in which case, the prize will be equally split between the winners. Honourable Mentions (without an associated monetary prize) may also be awarded.

The decision of the selection committee will be announced by the AdC. Preferably, the Award will be presented at a public event.

The AdC reserves the right not to award the prize.

The AdC shall retain the right to publish the awarded paper(s), as a working paper, up to one year after the decision made by the selection committee, without prejudice to the paper's possible publication in a different outlet. In case of publication in scientific outlets or others, the authors of the prize winning papers must explicitly mention having received the AdC award or Honourable Mention.

Complaints or appeals against the decision of the selection committee will not be entertained.

- d. Clarity of the text and formal rigour.
